NEWS GATHERED FROM THE SOUTH SIDE

Dudley I. Ely, Largest Man in City, Is the Sanitary Officer.

AFTER CARTER CHILDREN

Brother of E. H. Carter Wants Habeas Corpus Proceedings in the County.

Manchester Bureau, Times-Dispatch. No. 112 Hall Street. Mr. Dudley I. Ely was recently elected sanitary officer of the city of Richmond. The Board of Health, at its meeting on the 11th inst., recommended the election of Patrolman Miles Moore, but when he declined the office, Mr. Ely was the choice.

Mr. Ely has lived in Manchester all of his life. He has made a most efficient officer since his election, and last Tuesday night was re-elected without opposition. The unanimous vote of the board, where nineteen of the twenty-five members were present, elected him for another year.

Mr. Ely is one of the largest men in Manchester. He weighs over three hundred pounds. When only fourteen years of age he weighed 150 pounds, and he doesn't look like a child at all.

After Carter Children.

Mr. William C. Pullman, attorney for Mr. Fred Carter, of Springfield, Utah, yesterday asked Judge Crompton of the Chesterfield Circuit Court, for a writ of habeas corpus for the two children of his client's brother, Mr. S. H. Carter, who died in Utah some weeks ago. The children are now held by Mrs. Elizabeth Robertson, their grandmother, who last week qualified as their guardian. Mr. E. H. Wells will represent Mrs. Robertson, who lives near Brandy Church, in Chesterfield county. An interesting legal fight is expected to take place in the county over the possession of the children.

Square Dance to Return.

"Five years from now there will be no round dancing," said Mr. Tom Saunders, who for the past several years has played a violin throughout the State.

Mr. Saunders was in Manchester last night, and declared that from his observation the "old-time dancing" was coming back into fashion. They want the real old Virginia reel, again, and they are going to have it. Waiting and two-stepping will be no more within a few years.

Mr. Saunders has the distinction of being the oldest violinist in Richmond. He is a Confederate veteran, and came to Manchester to meet the convalesces in Joseph E. Johnston Camp. He will be at the "Folk" of the camp on the 21st of this month.

In the Churches.

Rev. J. B. Boutwell, pastor of West End Methodist Church, will preach at both services today. His morning subject will be "Three Big Islands in the Southern Sea." At night his sermon will be from the 10th chapter of the "Traffic Between These Islands."

"A Little Water and a Great Fire" will be the subject of the sermon by Rev. J. K. Joliffe in Central Methodist Church this morning. It is the second in a series of sermons on "Turn of Mind" that he is preaching.

The Rev. Dr. Griffin will preach this morning in Storkston Street Baptist Church on "The Christian's Duty." At night his subject will be "Bible and Confession."

Scottish Hierarchy, or Santa That Can't, will be the subject of Dr. Baily's sermon in the Presbyterian Church this morning.

Rev. J. A. Sullivan, pastor of Oak Grove Baptist Church, will preach in the Christian Church Tabernacle this afternoon.

LOCAL SCHOOL OF TECHNOLOGY

Virginia Mechanics' Institute Provides Technical Education for Richmond Men.

GREAT SCOPE OF SCHOOLS

At a Nominal Cost Men Secure Education in Mechanics and the Sciences.

Instruction in the night classes provided at the Virginia Mechanics' Institute is practically free. The small charge for tuition is made solely for the purpose of impressing the student with the importance of the work there and in conformity with the known Christian principle that "Where the Lord is, there will be his people."

The scope of the instruction offered is wide and comprehensive. To the young man who works during the day in the machine shop is offered thorough training in the mechanical sciences, including drawing, applied to his own line, physics, chemistry, electricity, elementary work in wood.

In this course, which may be completed in just about the time it takes him to serve an apprenticeship, he will get the complement of his shop work, which is necessary to turn him out a well-rounded mechanic, equipped for occupying any of the many lucrative positions offered to mechanical engineers.

Architectural.

For the ambitious young contractor or builder, who has not had time to seek the advantages of any of the higher institutions of learning, is offered training in architectural drawing, pure mathematics as far as an integral calculus, applied mechanics, elementary instruction and treatment of strength of materials and beams, motion of projectiles, general properties of fluids, heat and conduction, and fuels. General scientific training in the natural sciences would be taken with these courses to give the practical training of this class of men.

Let any one of these classes of men apply himself in the modeling class and freehand drawing, and he will get the elements of practical art work. In any of these departments the instructors pay especial attention to the practical applications of their work, as evidenced in their daily occupations.

The city provides this instruction at a nominal cost, and efforts will be made to enlarge the classes announced for the coming session. The department in woodwork embraces four years' instruction, twice a week during the season of several months. This course offers preliminary exercises in sawing, planing and chisel work, use of common tools and rule, square and compass. Further instruction is given in mortising, tenoning, mitreing and baling, with the end in view of efficiency in general woodwork, pattern-making and wood carving.

To the student who wishes to specialize in electricity is offered a three years' course. To the chemist is offered a two years' course, rounding out with qualitative and quantitative analysis.

The equipment of the school is modern, and visitors are always welcome. During the last semester many changes have taken place in the industrial world. The instruction offered in the manufacturing shops must of necessity be narrow. Specialists on planers, drills and lathes are found to be better earners. The young man who desires a mechanical or scientific career must be equipped broadly and thoroughly, and the technical school does for him in three or four years what he might take a lifetime to accomplish in the shop.

WAS EASY, MATTER.

Police Decide on Ruse to Capture Man Wanted.

Officers Bryant and Kellan arrested Arthur Limer, colored, yesterday morning by a clever ruse.

MEETINGS FOR THE WEEK

Eight of the Council Committees Will Get Together.

Council committee meetings will be held this week as follows:

Tomorrow, Committee on Streets at 3 P. M., on Light at 3 P. M., on Health at 3 P. M., on Printing and Claims at 3 P. M., and on Relief of Poor at 3 P. M.

Tuesday, Committee on Finance at 3 P. M.

Wednesday, Committee on Grounds and Buildings at 3 P. M.

Friday, Committee on Ordinances, Charities and Reform.

All of the above will be regular meetings, and so far as known, nothing more than routine business will come up, except that the Committee on Relief of the poor may take important action looking to the closing of the contract for the enlargement of the facilities at the Almshouse.

It was expected that a joint meeting of the two branches of the Council would be called for the purpose of electing the remaining members of the Committee on the Improvement of James River, but so far such a meeting has not been called. It may be called before Monday night, and if so it will probably be set for Friday night.

A Novel Post Card.

Miller and Rhoads have gotten out a novelty postcard containing thirteen panoramic views of various places of interest in Richmond.

The arrangement of the card is a very ingenious one, and when folded, it is no larger than the ordinary postcard.

The views are excellent specimens of high-class photography, and taken all in all, the card is unique. Thousands of them have been sold as souvenirs to be kept by the purchasers or sent to out-of-town friends.

"Trixie" at the Fair.

A prominent visitor to Richmond yesterday was W. H. Barnes, of Chicago, owner of the celebrated educated horse, "Trixie."

Mr. Barnes will have an exhibition temple of costliest design built at the Jamestown Exposition for "Trixie" to perform in.

He with a number of other capitalists will put on at the Exposition "Trixie's Ride." This will be realistic in every detail.

Mr. Barnes is a Virginian, and was born in Richmond forty-four years ago. He was accompanied here by Doc Wardell, the irrepressible Robinson Circus agent.

Negro Preacher in Bad Fix.

James Kelley, a negro, who says that he is a Lecturer on Morality, was sent to the grand jury from the Police Court yesterday morning on the charge of committing a criminal assault upon Leslie Boone, a negro girl, fourteen years of age.

The warrant was amended in Police Court, and while a misdemeanor had been alleged, a felony was charged. Kelley had been charged with an offense that was punishable with a fine. Now he will face a warrant that, if he is convicted, will send him to the galows. The negro said that Kelley had been adopted by the negro preacher. She had lived with him for years.

Wilson—Hicks.

Miss Florence I. Wilson and Mr. Raleigh W. Hicks surprised their many friends yesterday, September 15th, by announcing the fact for Washington, where they were quietly married at the residence of Rev. R. W. Lewis, of Fourth Street.

The bride is the petite and charming daughter of the late W. H. Wilson and Mrs. M. A. Wilson of this city. Mr. Hicks is a popular young business man.

Mr. and Mrs. Hicks will be at home to their friends after September 15th at No. 418 North Fourth Street.

To Resume Work.

The Southern Glass Works, North Seventeenth Street, which has been closed down since last June, will resume business this week. The plant, which has been dismantled and put in thorough order, will be run day and night. One hundred men will be employed.

Our Gibson Pictures

Article No. 13. Three Called Out.

"A Strike." Such is the subject of Charles Gibson's picture with the Times-Dispatch today.

Lovers have been organized into a union, a walking delegate has been appointed, a strike ordered, and the lover of a beautiful girl is said to be a crank, a moment and ordered to cease work. A whimsical concept of the artist's suggestion of comic opera possibilities, and rendered all the more humorous by the artist's way in which the tale is told.

This is no romance-house, however. The scene is laid in a spacious drawing-room, far larger than those of the past majority of Fifth Avenue houses—no speckles, indeed, the few pieces of ornamental furniture seem almost lost in it. The heroine is the daughter of the house—a girl of gorgeous beauty, exquisitely dressed, the least is a youth whose fatherless father has been made a man of wealth. He is making a declaration of fervent love, to which she is listening with evident pleasure. Suddenly there is an apparition, the door opens and the other girl, who is not a delegate is seen, upstaged hand, checking any further love-making. The indecent gravity of his face, the heavy shadowing of his eyes, the faint smile made walking delegate, and why he does not shrink from the performance of a duty that would keep a man with a heart.

The youth on his knees shrinks, almost trembles, at the awful portent of the messenger, which the girl does not at all understand. Such a thing as a lover's labor union is beyond her comprehension, and the expression on her face is of sheer bewilderment.

It is in the figure of this girl that the artist has his chief interest. The lover at her feet is a mere foil to her beauty. The artist has turned away his face from the lover, and he is not walking delegate, and why he does not shrink from the performance of a duty that would keep a man with a heart.

Discharged Veteran Attempts to Kill Head of National Soldiers' Home.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., September 15.—William McCauley, a veteran recently discharged from the Soldiers' Home in New York State, attempted to kill Governor Cornelia Wheeler, of the National Soldiers' Home, in this city today. Two shots were fired from a revolver, neither of which took effect. McCauley was overpowered by other inmates of the home, and later was arrested and taken to the county jail. McCauley sought admission to the home, but was refused on the ground that he had not been out of military home long enough.
